BELINDA BLINK

| | |
|--|---|
| Description | Belinda is the clapperboard girl on the set of 'Cool Movie'. Belinda is a kind girl, but very clumsy and she often has accidents on the set. Belinda looks as though she has been dragged through a hedge backwards, with wild hair and patched clothing. She peers out at the world from behind huge, thick, round spectacles. Belinda is terribly scatterbrained and is always too flustered to pay much attention to her appearance, so she is a little nervous of Penelope. When it comes to filming Belinda is incredibly focused. She will notice if anything is out of place in a shot. If the blue vase was to the left of the fireplace in take 1, she will notice if the blue vase is put to the right of the fireplace for take 2. So Belinda makes sure everything is just right before she will let a shot take place. Strangely the only time Belinda sounds confident and assertive is when she is correcting the continuity of a shot. She will still be clumsy, but it is obvious that she is concentrating solely on the production of the film, and has little attention for that cable snagged around her feet. Belinda has a crush on Block Buster, but is far too shy to do anything about it. |
| Intelligence type | Photographic memory. |
| Role | Clapper board operator and continuity editor. |
| Background | Belinda went to Film School hoping to become an actress. Unfortunately openings for a plain girl, who is gawky and accident prone are none existent. Luckily her instructor Block Buster noticed her talent for continuity editing, and encouraged her to stay in the film industry. When Block Buster started directing films he hired Belinda. Obviously as Block Buster has been the only person to be kind and friendly to Belinda she has developed a crush on him. |
| Talents | Spotting continuity errors. |
| Weaknesses | Clumsy, shy, careless of her appearance. |

LEGO ISLAND 3 Characters

Version 0.2

| BRICKSTER | |
|--|--|
| Description | The Brickster of LEGO Island One was originally created as a Trickster. He is not EVIL. He is mischievous. A comedic "bad guy", a character that has a warmth to him because he is, at all times, disturbingly human. He is motivated by his own selfish reasons. He just wants to be noticed. He is not a bad guy; really - he's just programmed that way. Historically, all cultures embrace the Trickster. He embodies the contradictions of life; sorrow/joy, life/death, gain/loss. Personally, the Trickster is generous/selfish, thoughtful/thoughtless, and social/anti-social. Order cannot be maintained without the contradictory influence of the Trickster. He has few manners. The story of the Brickster, if you can believe it, goes something like this: It was the first character that the Infomaniac built after he created the Island. One night after a fine day of building on LEGO Island, The Infomaniac mentioned that he wanted to build another friend, just like him. The Brickster was dumbstruck. "Create another friend? Create another! Like you created me? What nerve! I'm a self made man! I've been here just as long as you have. And as I recall, I named you!" No matter how much evidence the Infomaniac provided the Brickster wouldn't believe that the Infomaniac had built him and he didn't believe the Island didn't need anyone else. "In fact," the Brickster sneered, "there seems to be too many people on the Island as it is!" With that he strode off in a huff. That night he began to steal the Infomaniac's bricks and he has been stealing ever since to make a world exactly the way he thinks it should be, which isn't very nice because he doesn't like to think things out. The Brickster is often seen trying to capture the bricks you forget to put away... The Brickster has a white cat, originally the cat was for his film persona but the Brickster really likes the cat and now takes it home with him. |
| Intelligence type | Intrapersonal |
| Role | Mischiefous trickster, comedic 'wannabe' bad guy |
| Background | Jail. The Brickster claims to be the first ever mini-fig but records indicate he was the second. |
| Talents | Building and Tricks, Speed, Excuses, satire, irony, insults, escape. |
| Weaknesses | Deconstructs, megalomania, hates animals, can't get along with others. Jealousy, insecurity, selfish, a sociopath. |
| Visual traits | Striped prison shirt. Bad guy eye mask, stubble and a little moustache |
| Special phrases | "The Brickster is ready for some tricks, Sir!" "Mine! It's mine! All mine!" The Brickster's usual banter is insults about the LEGO citizens. For example, he refers to Pepper as 'condiment boy'. He'll sneeze mockingly if Pepper shows up. |
| Unique character traits | Chaos-bringer, negative trickster, Houdini-like escape powers - the Brickster can break out of anywhere. A verbal bully. |
| Interests/hobbies | Stealing things, himself, stopping others having fun |
| Favourite food | Super supreme extra large pizza. (Spicey?) |
| Favourite colour | He does not care about colour but loves hoops (hates vertical Stripes – they remind him of prison bars) |
| Favourite instrument | The Saw |
| Style and Accessories | The Brickster loves anything that has trap doors and trick features, but they all look a bit like they were put together from several other things. Mainly because he and the Brickster-Bots stole them from several other things. His favoured car would be an old Cadillac convertible with odd coloured panels. |

If two Bricksters Bots are trying to move a heavy block, one will be on one side pushing, the other will be on the opposite side of the block also pushing, so the block goes nowhere and the Bots strain away. Very large groups of Brickster Bots become extremely slapstick. Think of the Keystone Cops. If there is no one else to be mischievous with the Brickster Bots will play pranks on each other. |
